Mack

Minh Chau Do

20 11 2023

Daten von Mack

```
#Datensortierung
In Mortalität umrechnen
mack_r$V2 <- 100 - mack_r$V2 mack_r <- mack_r[complete.cases(mack_r),]</pre> mack_r <- mack_r[order(mack_r$V2), ]</pre>
Werte außerhalb des Bereichs [O, inf] raus
mack_r \leftarrow mack_r[mack_r$V1 >= 0, ] xr_mack <- sort(mack_r$V1)</pre> yr_mack <- mack_r$V2</pre>
In Mortalität umrechnen
mack_b$V2 <- 100 - mack_b$V2</pre> mack_b <- mack_b[complete.cases(mack_b),]</pre> mack_b <- mack_b[order(mack_b$V2), ]</pre>
Werte außerhalb des Bereichs [0, inf] raus
mack b \leftarrow mack b[mack b$V1 >= 0, ] xb_mack <- sort(mack_b$V1)</pre> yb_mack <- mack_b$V2
```

Startfunktion

Um die bestmögliche Anpassung an den vorliegenden Datenpunkten darzustellen wurde mithilfe einer Funktion der beste Startparameter mit dem kleinsten Fehler errmittelt, da die Anpassung stark von den initialen Startwerten abhängig ist.

```
for (beta in seq(0, max_beta, by = steps_beta)) { for (eta in seq(0, max_eta, by = steps_eta)) { start_params <- c(beta, eta)</pre>
      # Schätze die Parameter mit den aktuellen Startparametern
      if(identical(as.character(substitute(fitting_function)), "getstuexp2")){ output <- capture.output({</pre> result <- getstuexp2(
                         p = p, q = q, start = start_params,
                         show.output = TRUE, plot = FALSE, wert1 = 2
        })
      }
      else{
        output <- capture.output({</pre> result <- fitting_function(p = p, q = q, start = start_params,</pre> show.output = TRUE, plot = FALSE)
       })
      }
      # Berechne den Fehler (mack_r_1$value) für die aktuellen Startparameter
      current_error <- as.numeric(gsub("\\[1\\]\\s+", "", output[5]))</pre>
      # Speichere Fehler und die Startparameter, wenn der Fehler nicht NA ist
      if (!is.na(current_error)) {
        best_errors <- c(best_errors, current_error)</pre>
        best_starts <- rbind(best_starts, start_params)</pre>
      }
    }
  }
  # Finde den Index des kleinsten Fehlers (ignoriere NA-Werte)
  best_index <- which.min(best_errors)</pre>
  # Wähle den besten Startparameter mit dem kleinsten Fehler aus
  best_start <- best_starts[best_index, ]</pre>
  # Gib den besten Startparameter und den entsprechenden Fehler aus
  cat("Bester Startparameter:", best_start, "\n")
  cat("Bester Fehler:", best_errors[best_index], "\n")
 return(best_start)
}
find_best_start_3parameter <- function(p, q, max_shape1 = 10, max_shape2 = 10, max_scale = 10, steps_shape1, steps_shape2, steps_scale, fitting_function) { best_errors <- numeric() # Vektor für Fehlerwerte</pre> best_starts <- matrix(nrow = 0, ncol = 3) # Matrix für Startparameter
```

```
for (shape1 in seq(0, max_shape1, by = steps_shape1)) {
    for (shape2 in seq(0, max_shape2, by = steps_shape2)) {
      for (scale in seq(0, max_shape1, by = steps_scale)) { start_params <- c(shape1, shape2, scale)</pre>
        # Schätze die Parameter mit den aktuellen Startparametern
        if(identical(as.character(substitute(fitting_function)), "getstuexp3")){
          output <- capture.output({</pre> result <- getstuexp3(</pre>
                             p = p, q = q, start = start_params,
                             show.output = TRUE, plot = FALSE, wert1 = 2, wert2 = 6)
          })
      }
        else{
          output <- capture.output({</pre> result <- fitting_function(p = p, q = q, start = start_params,</pre>
                                    show.output = TRUE, plot = FALSE)
          })
        }
        # Berechne den Fehler (mack_r_1$value) für die aktuellen Startparameter
        current_error <- as.numeric(gsub("\\[1\\]\\s+", "", output[5]))</pre>
        # Speichere Fehler und die Startparameter, wenn der Fehler nicht NA ist
        if (!is.na(current error)) {
          best_errors <- c(best_errors, current_error)</pre>
          best_starts <- rbind(best_starts, start_params)</pre>
        }
      }
   }
  }
  # Finde den Index des kleinsten Fehlers (ignoriere NA-Werte)
  best_index <- which.min(best_errors)</pre>
  # Wähle den besten Startparameter mit dem kleinsten Fehler aus
  best_start <- best_starts[best_index, ]</pre>
  # Gib den besten Startparameter und den entsprechenden Fehler aus
  cat("Bester Startparameter:", best_start, "\n")
  cat("Bester Fehler:", best_errors[best_index], "\n")
 return(best_start)
find_best_start_4parameter <- function(p, q, max_shape, max_scale, max_rate,</pre> max_mix, steps_shape, steps_scale, steps_rate, steps_mix,fitting_function) {
  best_errors <- numeric() # Vektor für Fehlerwerte</pre>
```

```
best_starts <- matrix(nrow = 0, ncol = 4) # Matrix für Startparameter</pre>
for (shape in seq(0, max_shape, by = steps_shape)) {
  for (scale in seq(0, max_scale, by = steps_scale)) { for (rate in seq(0, max_rate, by = steps_rate)) { for (mix in seq(0, max_mix, by = steps_mix)) { start_params <- c(shape, scale, rate, mix)</pre> # Schätze die Weibull-Parameter mit den aktuellen Startparametern
        output <- capture.output({</pre> result <- fitting_function(p = p, q = q, start = start_params,</pre>
                                 show.output = TRUE, plot = FALSE)
        })
        # Berechne den Fehler (mack_r_1$value) für die aktuellen Startparameter
        current_error <- as.numeric(gsub("\\[1\\]\\s+", "", output[5]))</pre>
        # Speichere Fehler und die Startparameter, wenn der Fehler nicht NA ist
        if (!is.na(current_error)) {
          best_errors <- c(best_errors, current_error)</pre>
          best_starts <- rbind(best_starts, start_params)</pre>
      }
    }
  }
}
Finde den Index des kleinsten Fehlers (ignoriere NA-Werte)
best_index <- which.min(best_errors)</pre>
Wähle den besten Startparameter mit dem kleinsten Fehler aus
best_start <- best_starts[best_index, ]</pre>
Gib den besten Startparameter und den entsprechenden Fehler aus
cat("Bester Startparameter:", best_start, "\n")
cat("Bester Fehler:", best_errors[best_index], "\n")
return(best_start)
```

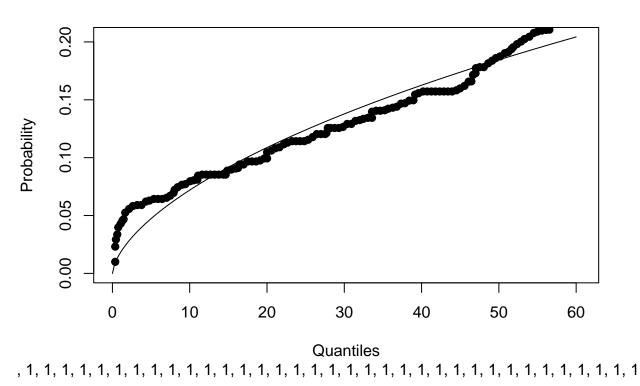

Datenanpassung an die Daten von Mack

Weibullverteilung

Bester Startparameter: 2 3

```
Bester Fehler: 1.081487e-06
mack_r_1 <- getweibullpar(</pre> p = yr_mack/100,
                         q = xr_mack,
                         start = best_mack_r_1,
                         show.output = TRUE,
                         plot = TRUE
$par
[1]
         0.6242798 638.1612316
##
$value
[1] 1.081487e-06
##
$counts
function gradient
##
         74
##
$convergence
[1] 0
##
$message
[1] "CONVERGENCE: REL_REDUCTION_OF_F <= FACTR*EPSMCH"
```

Weibull (shape = 0.624, scale = 638)

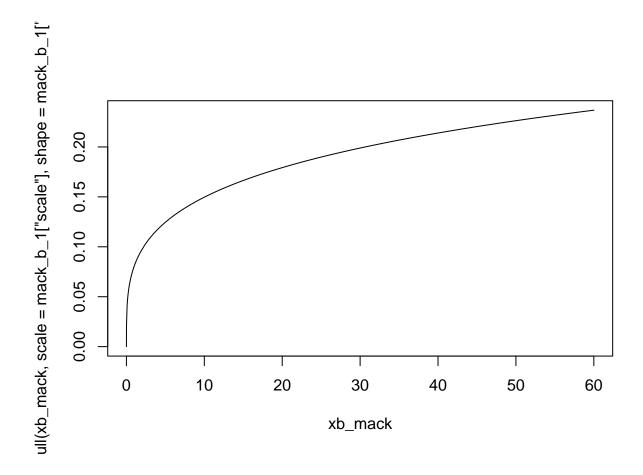

```
{\tt mack_r_1}
##
          shape
                        scale
      0.6242798 638.1612316
plot(xr_mack,
     pweibull(xr_mack,
                scale = mack_r_1["scale"], shape = mack_r_1["shape"]), type = "1") bull(xr_mack, scale = mack_r_1["scale"], shape = mack_r_1[" 0.20
       0.15
       0.10
       0.05
                           10
               0 20 30 40
                                                                               50 60 xr mack best_mack_b_1 <- find_best_start_2parameter(p = yb_mack/100, q = xb_mack, max_beta = 10, max_eta = 10, steps_beta = 1, steps_eta = 1, fitting_function = getweibullpar)
Bester Startparameter: 3 7
Bester Fehler: 1.099492e-06
mack_b_1 <- getweibullpar(</pre> p = yb_{mack/100}
                            q = xb_{mack}
                            start = best_mack_b_1,
                            show.output = TRUE,
                            plot = TRUE
$par
[1]
           0.2850958 5906.2890441
```

```
##
$value
[1] 1.099492e-06
##
$counts
function gradient
53 53
##
$convergence
[1] 0
##
$message
[1] "CONVERGENCE: REL_REDUCTION_OF_F <= FACTR*EPSMCH"</pre>
```

Weibull (shape = 0.285, scale = 5910)

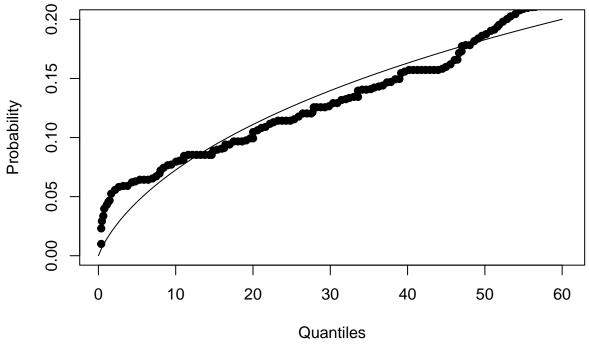

Exponentiierte Weibullverteilung

```
exponentiierte Weibullverteilung
source("C:/Users/Chau/Documents/Masterarbeit/R Funktionen/getweibpar.R") best_weibbull_xr_mack <- find_best_start_2parameter(p = yr_mack/100,</pre>
                                                       q = xr_mack,
                                                       max_beta = 10,
                                                       max_eta = 10,
                                                       steps_beta = 1,
                                                       steps_eta = 1,
                                                       fitting_function = getweibpar)
Bester Startparameter: 1 6
Bester Fehler: 1.445915e-06
weibbull_xr_mack <- getweibpar(</pre>
                         p = yr_mack/100,
                         q = xr_{mack}
                         start = best_weibbull_xr_mack,
                         show.output = TRUE,
                         plot = TRUE
$par
[1] 0.150324 9.410392
```

```
##
$value
[1] 1.445915e-06
##
$counts
function gradient
29 29
##
$convergence
[1] 0
##
$message
[1] "CONVERGENCE: REL_REDUCTION_OF_F <= FACTR*EPSMCH"</pre>
```

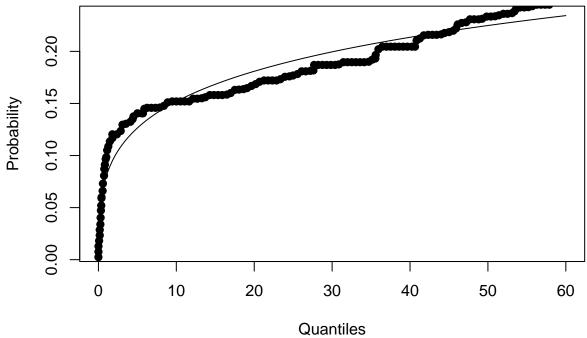

exp. Weibull (alpha = 0.15, theta = 9.41)

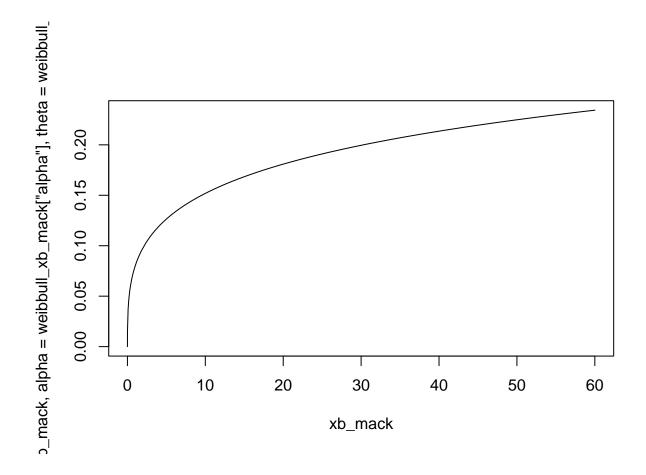

```
r_mack, alpha = weibbull_xr_mack["alpha"], theta = weibbull_ 0.20
       0.15
       0.10
       0.05
       0.00
                            10
               0 20 30 40
                                                                                 50 60 xr_mack best_weibbull_xb_mack <- find_best_start_2parameter(p = yb_mack/100,</pre>
                                                               q = xb_{mack}
                                                               max_beta = 10,
                                                               max_eta = 10,
                                                               steps_beta = 1,
                                                               steps_eta = 1,
                                                               fitting_function = getweibpar)
Bester Startparameter: 2 4
Bester Fehler: 1.16156e-06
weibbull_xb_mack <- getweibpar(</pre> p = yb_{mack/100}
                            q = xb_{mack}
                            start = best_weibbull_xb_mack,
                            show.output = TRUE,
                            plot = TRUE
$par
[1] 0.09283609 5.50587372
##
$value
[1] 1.16156e-06
##
$counts
function gradient
```

```
58 58 58
$convergence
[1] 0

$message
[1] "CONVERGENCE: REL_REDUCTION_OF_F <= FACTR*EPSMCH"</pre>
```

exp. Weibull (alpha = 0.0928, theta = 5.51)

Mischung aus Weibull- und Exponentialverteilung

q = xr_mack,

plot = TRUE

show.output = TRUE,

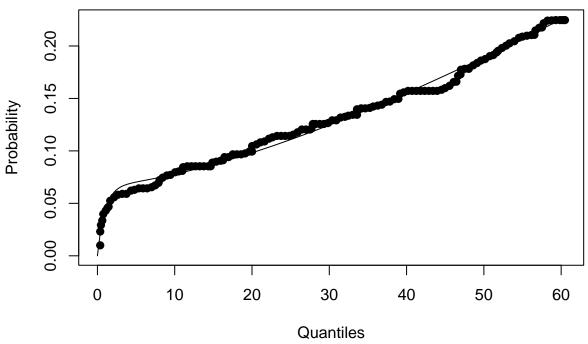

```
Mischung aus Weibull- und Exponentialverteilung
source("C:/Users/Chau/Documents/Masterarbeit/R Funktionen/getweibex.R") best_weibex_xr_mack <- find_best_start_4parameter(p = yr_mack/100,</pre>
                                                     q = xr_mack,
                                                     max_shape = 1,
                                                     max_scale = 100,
                                                     max_rate = 0.7, \max_{mix} = 1,
                                                     steps_shape = 0.1,
                                                     steps_scale = 20,
                                                     steps_rate = 0.1,
                                                     steps_mix = 0.1,
                                                     fitting_function = getweibex)
Bester Startparameter: 0.3 40 0.6 0.8
Bester Fehler: 1.63909e-07
weibex_xr_mack <- getweibex(</pre>
                         p = yr_mack/100,
```

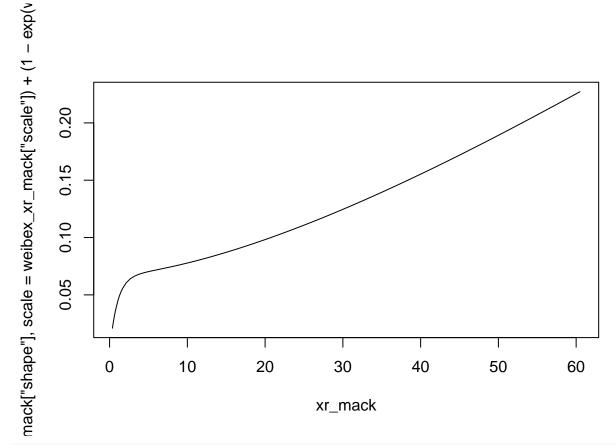

start = best_weibex_xr_mack, # c(0.5, 60, 0.4, 0.1),

```
$par
##
   [1]
         1.544623 178.214428
                                1.027817
                                            2.634672
##
$value
[1] 1.63909e-07
##
$counts
function gradient
         39
##
##
$convergence
[1] 0
##
$message
[1] "CONVERGENCE: REL_REDUCTION_OF_F <= FACTR*EPSMCH"
```

 $weibex_xr_mack$

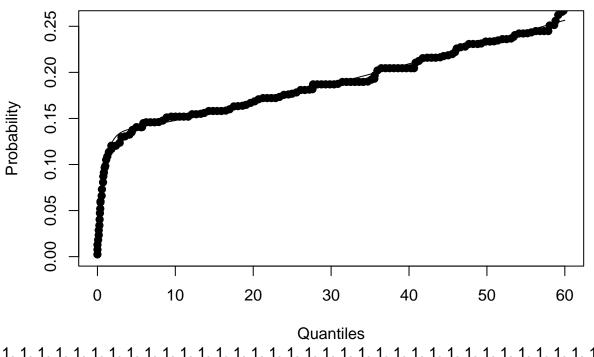

Weibull & Exponetial (shape = 1.54, scale = 178, rate = 1.03, mix = 0.9

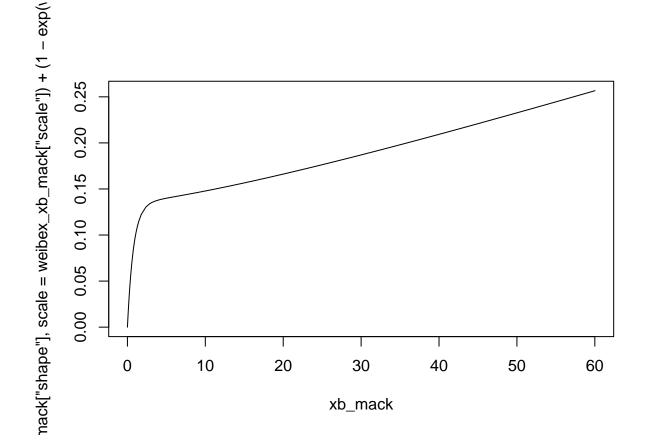

```
plot = TRUE
$par
##
  [1]
        1.287899 259.489287
                              1.275995
                                         1.858725
##
$value
[1] 9.583841e-08
##
$counts
function gradient
##
        85
##
$convergence
[1] 0
##
$message
[1] "CONVERGENCE: REL_REDUCTION_OF_F <= FACTR*EPSMCH"
Weibull & Exponetial (shape = 1.29, scale = 259, rate = 1.28, mix = 0.8
```

```
weibex_xb_mack
##
        shape
                                            mix scale rate
                            1.275995
     1.287899 259.489287
                                       1.858725
plot(xb_mack, (exp(weibex_xb_mack["mix"]) / ( 1 + exp(weibex_xb_mack["mix"])) * stats::pweibull(q = xb_mack,
```

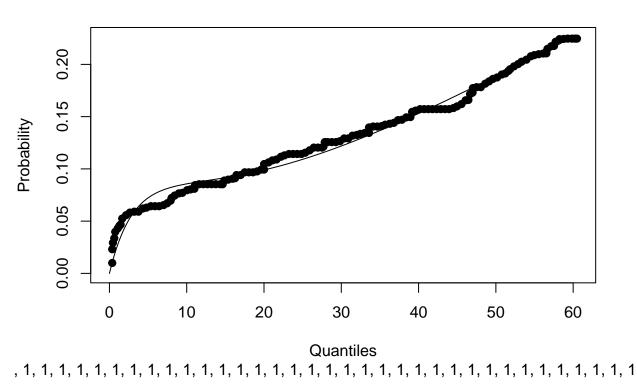

Mischung von exponentiierter Weibull- und Exponentialverteilung

Bester Startparameter: 0.1 40 0.7 0.5

```
Bester Fehler: 3.306793e-07
weibex2_xr_mack <- get2weibex(</pre>
                         p = yr_mack/100,
                         q = xr_mack,
                         start = best_weibex2_xr_mack,
                         show.output = TRUE,
                         plot = TRUE
$par
[1]
       0.2748318 40.0012224 0.3541715 2.3512748
##
$value
[1] 3.306793e-07
##
$counts
function gradient
##
         53
##
$convergence
[1] 0
##
$message
[1] "CONVERGENCE: REL_REDUCTION_OF_F <= FACTR*EPSMCH"
```

exp.Weibull&Exponetial(alpha= 0.275, theta= 40, rate= 0.354, mix= 0.9

```
weibex2_xr_mack
##
         alpha theta
  0.2748318 40.0012224 0.3541715
                                         2.3512748
plot(xr_mack, (exp(weibex2_xr_mack["mix"]) / ( 1 + exp(weibex2_xr_mack["mix"])) * reliaR::pexpo.weibull(q = xr_mack, alpha = weibex2_xr_mack["alpha"], theta = weibex2_xr_mack["theta"]) +
         (1 - exp(weibex2_xr_mack["mix"]) / ( 1 + exp(weibex2_xr_mack["mix"]))) *
         stats::pexp(q = xr_mack, rate = weibex2_xr_mack["rate"])),
     type = "1")
cr_mack["alpha"], theta = weibex2_xr_mack["theta"]) + (1 - ex 0.20
      0.15
      0.10
      0.05
              0 10
                                                                              50 20 30 40 60 xr_mack best_weibex2_xb_mack <- find_best_start_4parameter(p = yb_mack/100,</pre>
                                                           q = xb_{mack}
                                                           max_shape = 1,
                                                           max_scale = 100,
```

```
Bester Startparameter: 0.8 20 0.3 0.8
Bester Fehler: 1.241006e-07
weibex2_xb_mack <- get2weibex(</pre>
                         p = yb_mack/100,
                         q = xb_{mack}
                         start = best_weibex2_xb_mack,
                         show.output = TRUE,
                         plot = TRUE
$par
       0.2090368 20.0240777 1.2705060 1.8475471
[1]
$value
[1] 1.241006e-07
##
$counts
function gradient
##
         50
##
$convergence
[1] 0
##
$message
[1] "CONVERGENCE: REL_REDUCTION_OF_F <= FACTR*EPSMCH"
```

exp.Weibull&Exponetial(alpha= 0.209, theta= 20, rate= 1.27, mix= 0.86

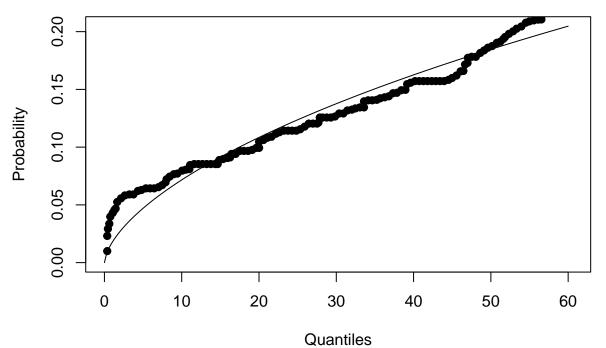

```
weibex2_xb_mack
##
         alpha theta
    0.2090368 20.0240777 1.2705060 1.8475471
plot(xb_mack,
      (exp(weibex2_xb_mack["mix"]) / ( 1 + exp(weibex2_xb_mack["mix"])) * reliaR::pexpo.weibull(q = xb_mack, alpha = weibex2_xb_mack["alpha"], theta = weibex2_xb_mack["theta"]) +
         (1 - exp(weibex2_xb_mack["mix"]) / ( 1 + exp(weibex2_xb_mack["mix"]))) *
         stats::pexp(q = xb_mack, rate = weibex2_xb_mack["rate"])),
     type = "1")
b_mack["alpha"], theta = weibex2_xb_mack["theta"]) + (1 - e) 0.25
       0.20
       0.15
       0.10
       0.05
       0.00
               0 10 20 30 40
                                                                                50 60 xb_mack
```

Exponentiierte Weibullverteilung ohne Lambda = 1

```
steps_shape2 = 1,
                                                     steps_scale = 1,
                                                     fitting_function = getexpweib)
Bester Startparameter: 1 10 5
Bester Fehler: 1.06835e-06
expweib_xr_mack <- getexpweib(</pre>
                        p = yr_mack/100,
                        q = xr_mack,
                        start = best_expweib_xr_mack,
                        show.output = TRUE,
                        plot = TRUE
$par
[1] 668.8049456   0.6744046   0.9205820
$value
[1] 1.06835e-06
##
$counts
function gradient
##
        62
##
$convergence
[1] 0
##
$message
[1] "CONVERGENCE: REL_REDUCTION_OF_F <= FACTR*EPSMCH"
```

exp. Weibull (scale = 669, 1.shape = 0.674, 2.shape = 0.921)

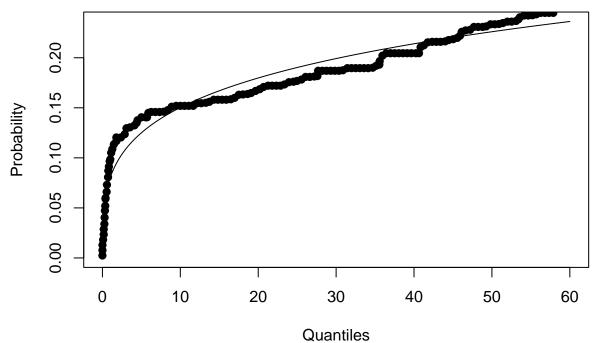

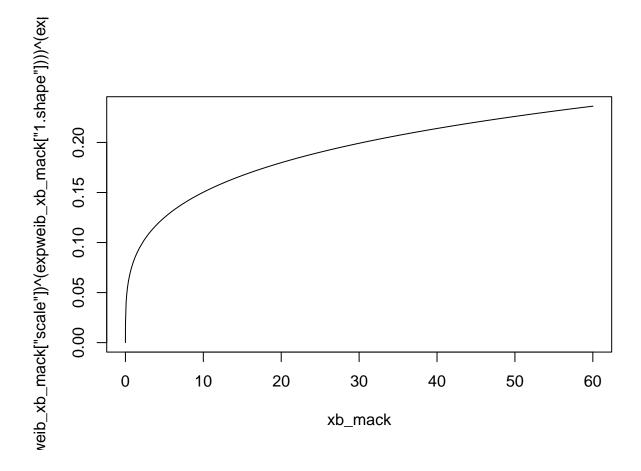

```
weib_xr_mack["scale"])^(expweib_xr_mack["1.shape"])))^(exp 0.20
       0.15
       0.10
       0.05
                           10
               0 20 30 40
                                                                                50 60 xr_mack best_expweib_xb_mack <- find_best_start_3parameter(p = yb_mack/100,</pre> q = xb_{mack},
                                                             max_shape1 = 10,
                                                             max_shape2 = 10,
                                                             max_scale = 10,
                                                             steps_shape1 = 1,
                                                             steps_shape2 = 1,
                                                             steps_scale = 1,
                                                             fitting_function = getexpweib)
Bester Startparameter: 6 10 1
Bester Fehler: 1.117411e-06
expweib_xb_mack <- getexpweib(</pre>
                            p = yb_{mack/100},
                            q = xb_mack,
                            start = best_expweib_xb_mack,
                            show.output = TRUE,
                            plot = TRUE
$par
[1] 1726.9529818
                           0.2003024
                                          1.5732366
##
$value
[1] 1.117411e-06
##
```

```
$counts
function gradient
59 59
##
$convergence
[1] 0
##
$message
[1] "CONVERGENCE: REL_REDUCTION_OF_F <= FACTR*EPSMCH"</pre>
```

expweib_xb_mack

exp. Weibull (scale = 1730, 1.shape = 0.2, 2.shape = 1.57)

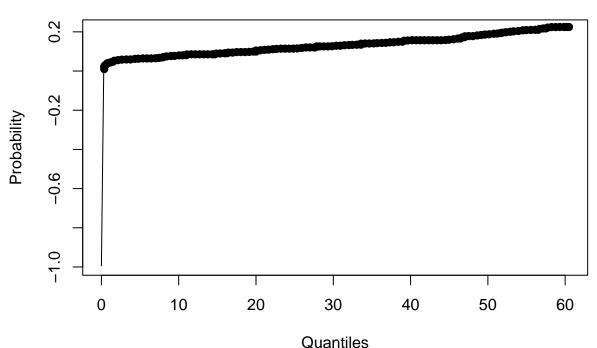

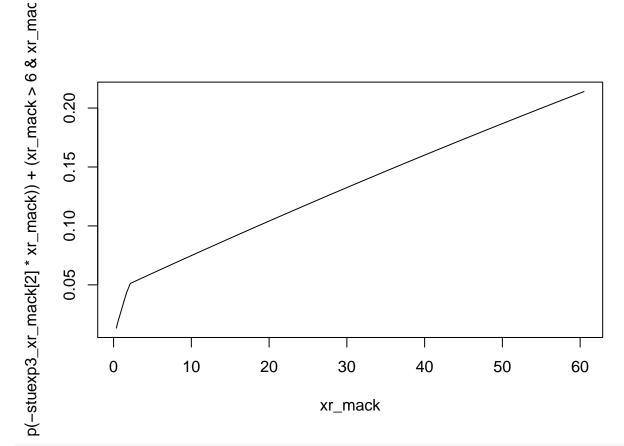

3-Stufige Exponetialverteilung

```
3-Stufige Exponetialverteilung
source("C:/Users/Chau/Documents/Masterarbeit/R Funktionen/getstuexp3.R") best_stuexp3_xr_mack <- find_best_start_3parameter(p = yr_mack/100,</pre>
                                                      q = xr_mack,
                                                      max_shape1 = 0.1,
                                                      max_shape2 = 0.1,
                                                      max_scale = 0.1,
                                                      steps_shape1 = 0.01,
                                                      steps_shape2 = 0.01,
                                                      steps_scale = 0.01,
                                                      fitting_function = getstuexp3)
Bester Startparameter: 0.1 0.03 0.09
Bester Fehler: 3.462181e-07
stuexp3_xr_mack <- getstuexp3(</pre>
                         p = yr_{mack/100}
                         q = xr_mack,
                         start = best_stuexp3_xr_mack,
                         show.output = TRUE,
                         plot = TRUE,
                         wert1 = 2,
                         wert2 = 6
```

```
$par
[1] 0.019697401 0.003066801 19.268979077
##
$value
[1] 3.462181e-07
##
$counts
function gradient
37 37
##
$convergence
[1] 0
##
$message
[1] "CONVERGENCE: REL_REDUCTION_OF_F <= FACTR*EPSMCH"</pre>
```

3 stueckw. Exponential (1.para = 0.0197, 2.para = 0.00307, 3.para = 1

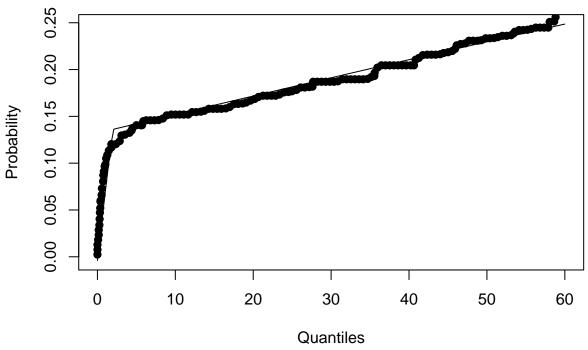

```
plot = TRUE,
                         wert1 = 2,
                         wert2 = 6
$par
[1] 0.07315854 0.00100000 0.00100000
$value
  [1] 9.038144e-07
##
$counts
function gradient
##
         19
##
$convergence
  [1] 0
##
```

[1] "CONVERGENCE: REL_REDUCTION_OF_F <= FACTR*EPSMCH"

3 stueckw. Exponential (1.para = 0.0732, 2.para = 0.001, 3.para = 0.0

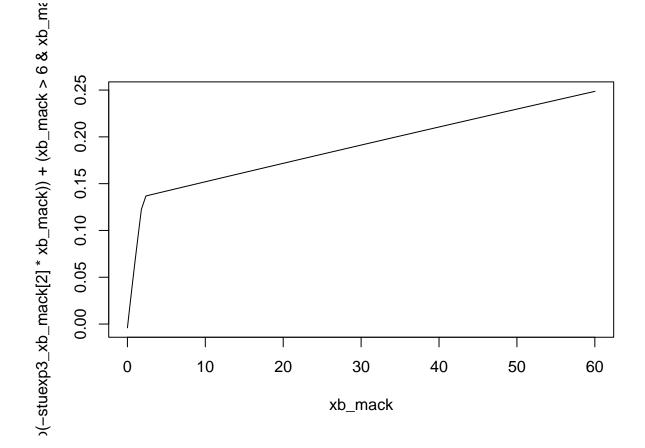

stuexp3_xb_mack

##

$message

1.para 2.para 3.para ## 0.07315854 0.00100000 0.00100000

2-Stufige Exponetialverteilung

```
Bester Startparameter: 0.1 0
Bester Fehler: 4.310425e-07
stuexp2_xr_mack <- getstuexp2(</pre>
                         p = yr_{mack/100}
                         q = xr_mack,
                         start = best_stuexp2_xr_mack,
                         show.output = TRUE,
                         plot = TRUE,
                         wert1 = 2
$par
[1] 0.026623598 0.003033222
##
$value
[1] 4.310425e-07
##
$counts
##
   function gradient
##
         18
##
$convergence
[1] 0
##
$message
[1] "CONVERGENCE: REL_REDUCTION_OF_F <= FACTR*EPSMCH"
```

2 stueckw. Exponential (1.para = 0.0266, 2.para = 0.00303)

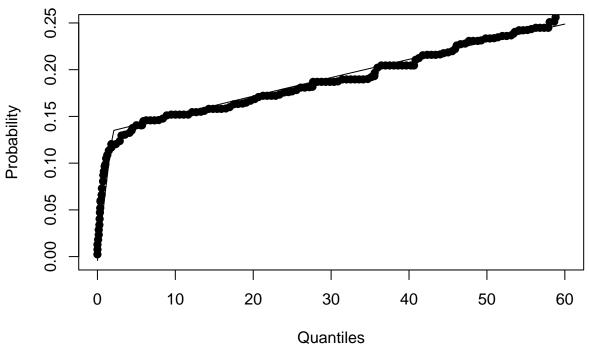

```
stuexp2_xr_mack
##
                                 1.para
                                                                                   2.para
0.026623598 0.003033222
plot(xr_mack, ((xr_mack > 0 & xr_mack <= 2 ) * (1 - exp(-stuexp2_xr_mack[1] * xr_mack)) +</pre>
                                                                                                                                                   (xr_mack > 2) * (1 - exp(-stuexp2_xr_mack[1] * 2)) + (exp(-2 * stuexp2_xr_mack[2]) - exp(-stuexp2_xr_mack[2] * xr_mack))),
                     type = "1")
 (1 - \exp(-stuexp2_xr_mack[1] * 2)) + (xr_mack[1] * 2)) + (xr_mack[ 0.20
                         0.15
                         0.10
                         0.05
                         0.00
                                                     0 10 20 30 40
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             50 60 xr_mack best_stuexp2_xb_mack <- find_best_start_2parameter(p = yb_mack/100,</pre>
                                                                                                                                                                                                                          q = xb_{mack}
                                                                                                                                                                                                                          max_beta = 1,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                          max_eta = 0.5,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                          steps_beta = 0.1,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                          steps_eta = 0.01,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                          fitting_function = getstuexp2)
Bester Startparameter: 0.3 0.09
Bester Fehler: 9.246965e-07
stuexp2_xb_mack <- getstuexp2(</pre>
                                                                                                    p = yb_{mack}/100,
                                                                                                    q = xb_{mack}
                                                                                                     start = best_stuexp2_xb_mack,
```

```
show.output = TRUE,
    plot = TRUE,
    wert1 = 2
)

$par
[1] 0.072405070 0.002095975
```

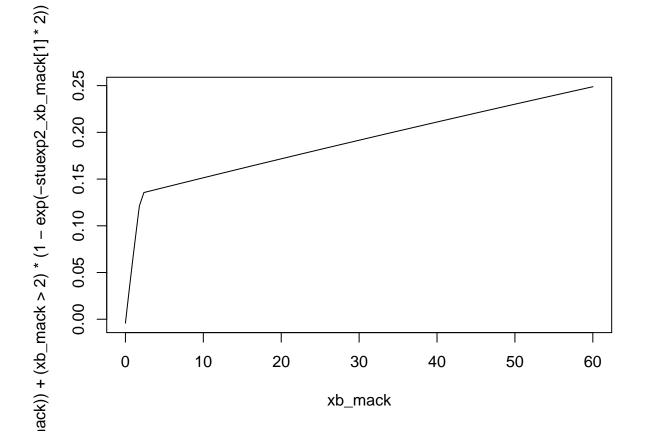

```
$par
[1] 0.072405070 0.002095975
##
$value
[1] 9.246965e-07
##
$counts
function gradient
21 21
##
$convergence
[1] 0
##
$message
[1] "CONVERGENCE: REL_REDUCTION_OF_F <= FACTR*EPSMCH"</pre>
```

2 stueckw. Exponential (1.para = 0.0724, 2.para = 0.0021)

stuexp2_xb_mack

1.para 2.para ## 0.072405070 0.002095975

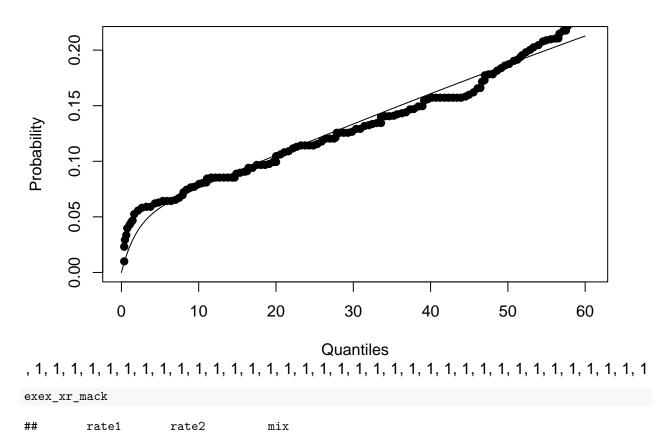

Mischung aus 2 Exponentialverteilungen

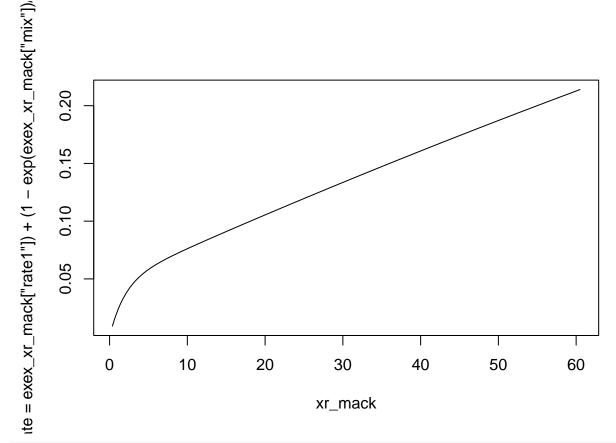

Bester Startparameter: 0.2 0.7 0.4 ## Bester Fehler: 5.053889e-07

```
exex_xr_mack <- getexex(</pre>
                         p = yr_mack/100,
                         q = xr_mack,
                         start = best_exex_xr_mack,
                         show.output = TRUE,
                         plot = TRUE
$par
[1] 0.003193963 0.524948155 3.022755921
$value
[1] 5.053889e-07
##
$counts
  function gradient
##
         49
##
$convergence
   [1] 0
##
##
$message
[1] "CONVERGENCE: REL_REDUCTION_OF_F <= FACTR*EPSMCH"
```

Exponential & Exponential (rate1 = 0.00319, rate1 = 0.525, mix = 0.9!

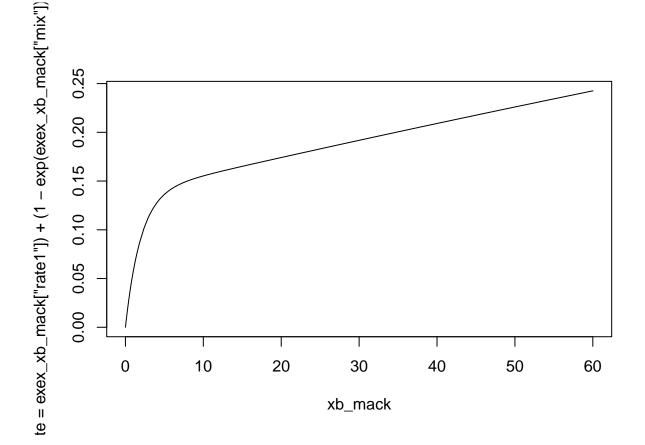

```
0.003193963 0.524948155 3.022755921
```

```
plot = TRUE
$par
[1] 0.002161458 0.512933319 1.835014171
$value
[1] 1.432223e-06
##
$counts
function gradient
##
       17
##
$convergence
[1] 0
##
$message
[1] "CONVERGENCE: REL_REDUCTION_OF_F <= FACTR*EPSMCH"
 Exponential & Exponential (rate1 = 0.00216, rate1 = 0.513, mix = 0.86
     0.20
     0.15
Probability 0.10
     0.05
     0.00
           0 10 20 30 40
                                                          50 60 Quantiles exex_xb_mack rate1
                 rate2
0.002161458 0.512933319 1.835014171
plot(xb_mack,
```

(exp(exex_xb_mack["mix"]) / (1 + exp(exex_xb_mack["mix"])) * stats::pexp(q = xb_mack, rate = exex_xb_mack["rate1"]

Ergebnnis

```
getvalue <- function(p, q, best_start, fitting_function){</pre>
  if(identical(as.character(substitute(fitting_function)), "getstuexp2")){
    output <- capture.output({</pre> result <- getstuexp2(p = p, q = q, start = best_start, show.output = TRUE,</pre> plot = FALSE, wert1 = 2)
    })
  }
  else if(identical(as.character(substitute(fitting_function)), "getstuexp3")){ output <- capture.output({</pre> result <- getstuexp3(</pre> p = p, q = q, start = best_start,
                              show.output = TRUE, plot = FALSE, wert1 = 2, wert2 = 6)
          })
  }
  else{
    output <- capture.output({</pre> result <- fitting_function(p = p, q = q, start = best_start,</pre>
```

```
show.output = TRUE, plot = FALSE)
   })
  # Berechne den Fehler (mack_r_1$value) für die aktuellen Startparameter
  error <- as.numeric(gsub("\\[1\\]\\s+", "", output[5]))</pre> return(error)
}
best_test <- function(p, q, weibull, weib, weibex, weibex2, expweib, stuexp3, stuexp2,</pre> exex, start_weibull, start_weib, start_weibex, start_weibex2, start_expweib, start_stuexp3, start_stuexp2, start_exex, group){
  weibull_val <- getvalue(p, q, start_weibull, getweibullpar)</pre> weib_val <- getvalue(p, q, start_weib, getweibpar)</pre> weibex_val <- getvalue(p, q, start_weibex, getweibex)</pre>
  weibex2_val <- getvalue(p, q, start_weibex2, get2weibex)</pre> expweib_val <- getvalue(p, q, start_expweib, getexpweib)</pre> stuexp3_val <- getvalue(p, q, start_stuexp3, getstuexp3)</pre>
  stuexp2_val <- getvalue(p, q, start_stuexp2, getstuexp2)</pre> exex_val <- getvalue(p, q, start_exex, getexex)</pre> error_distribution_pairs <- list(</pre> list(weibull val, "W"),
    list(weib_val, "e.W."),
    list(weibex val, "M. W&E"), list(weibex2_val, "M. e.W&E"), list(expweib_val, "e.W o. lambda = 1"),
    list(stuexp3_val, "3 s.E."),
   list(stuexp2_val, "2 s.E."),
    list(exex_val, "M. E&E")
  # Suchen Verteilung mit dem kleinsten Fehler best_pair <- error_distribution_pairs[[which.min(sapply()]]</pre> error_distribution_pairs, function(pair) pair[[1]]))]]
  # Drucken Sie die Ergebnisse
  cat("Beste Verteilung:", best_pair[[2]], "\n") cat("Bester Fehler:", best_pair[[1]], "\n") cat("Gruppe: ", group)
 return(c(group, best_pair[[2]], best_pair[[1]]))
}
best_savr <- best_test(yb_mack/100, xb_mack, mack_b_1, weibbull_xb_mack,</pre> weibex_xb_mack, weibex2_xb_mack, expweib_xb_mack, stuexp3_xb_mack, stuexp2_xb_mack, exex_xb_mack,
                        best_mack_b_1, best_weibbull_xb_mack,
                        best_weibex_xb_mack, best_weibex2_xb_mack,
                        best_expweib_xb_mack, best_stuexp3_xb_mack,
                        best_stuexp2_xb_mack, best_exex_xb_mack, "SAVR")
```

```
Beste Verteilung: M. W&E
Bester Fehler: 9.583841e-08
Gruppe: SAVR
best_tavr <- best_test(yr_mack/100, xr_mack, mack_r_1, weibbull_xr_mack, weibex_xr_mack, weibex2_xr_mack, expweib_xr_mack, stuexp3_xr_mack, stuexp2_xr_mack, exex_xr_mack,
                       best_mack_r_1, best_weibbull_xr_mack,
                       best weibex xr mack, best weibex2 xr mack,
                       best_expweib_xr_mack, best_stuexp3_xr_mack, best_stuexp2_xr_mack, best_exex_xr_mack, "TAVR")
Beste Verteilung: M. W&E
Bester Fehler: 1.63909e-07
Gruppe: TAVR
tab <- matrix(c("PARTNER3", "LoRi", "TSR", best_tavr[1], best_tavr[2],</pre> best_tavr[3], NA, NA, weibex_xr_mack[1:2], NA,
                weibex_xr_mack[3:4],
                "PARTNER3", "LoRi", "TSR", best_savr[1], best_savr[2], best_savr[3], NA, NA, weibex_xb_mack[1:2], NA,
                weibex_xb_mack[3:4]), ncol=13, byrow=TRUE)
rownames(tab) <- NULL colnames(tab) <- c('Studie', 'PG', 'EP', 'GR', 'Verteilung', 'SSE', '$\\alpha$',</pre>
                   '$\\theta$', '$\\lambda_1$', '$\\lambda_2$', '$\\lambda_3$', '$\\vartheta$', '$\\psi$')
results <- as.data.frame(tab)
Speichern
write.table(results, "results_mack.txt", sep = "\t", row.names = FALSE)
Funktion zur Überprüfung von NA-Werten für Zeichenketten und numerische Werte is_non_empty <- function(x) {</pre> return(!is.na(x) & x != "") # Spalten mit mindestens einem nicht-NA-Wert ermitteln nicht_leere_spalten <- colSums(sapply(results, is_non_empty)) > 0
Konvertieren Sie die Tabelle in eine Markdown-Tabelle
print(results[, nicht_leere_spalten])
       Studie
               PG EP
                         GR Verteilung
                                                SSE
                                                         $\\lambda 1$
1 PARTNER3 LoRi TSR TAVR
                                M. W&E 1.63909e-07 1.54462347325681
2 PARTNER3 LoRi TSR SAVR
                                M. W&E 9.583841e-08 1.28789943647431
##
         $\\lambda 2$ $\\vartheta$ $\\psi$
1 178.214428361564 1.0278169037666 2.63467164931402
2 259.489286563926 1.2759950391949 1.85872537761786
```